

DHR Threatened Sites:
Request for Proposals 2015/2015

Department of Historic Resources is currently accepting Threatened Sites proposals for the 2015/2016 fiscal year beginning July 1, 2015. The overall goal of the program is to fund archaeological resources which are under threat of destruction and which have no legal protection. Funds are used primarily for site survey, evaluation, and excavation but also artifact analysis, background research, and report writing (see DHR 2013 Archaeological Month Poster for types of projects funded). Proposals can be submitted by any interested party. The program is guided by a committee made up of archaeologists from DHR, ASV, and COVA. Proposals are distributed to the committee members and evaluated using a quantitative form. The top proposals are selected for funding and negotiation with consultants begins at that time. The funding level for 2015/2016 is $50,000. Requests of $4,999 or less, can be single sourced; projects of $5,000 or more, are competitive and will be put out for bidding. More information and Threatened Sites Proposal Forms are available on the DHR webpage.

Proposals accepted at any time but to ensure timely review by April 15, 2015

For further information, please contact:

Michael B. Barber, State Archaeologist at:

mike.barber@dhr.virginia.gov or call 540 387-5398.